

A C C O R D I A

The Italy Lectures 2025-2026

Institute of Classical Studies
School of Advanced Study
University of London

Thirty-eighth Series

Lectures commence at 17.30

Institute of Archaeology
University College
University of London

2025

TUESDAY October 21

‘The Potentino Exploration Project: the undiscovered temple’

Eleanor Betts, Open University

Joint Lecture with the Institute of Classical Studies

Room 264, Senate House, Malet Street, London WC1

TUESDAY November 11

‘All PaTHS Lead to the Pastures: investigating ancient droveways in central-southern Italy through landscape archaeology and geosciences’

Francesca Romana Del Fattore, University of Newcastle

Joint Lecture with the Institute of Classical Studies

Room 261, Senate House, Malet Street, London WC1

TUESDAY December 2

Accordia Anniversary Lecture

‘Italy, Africa and the Central Mediterranean:
changing perspectives on the 1st millennium BCE’

David Mattingly, University of Leicester

Joint Lecture with the Institute of Classical Studies

Room 264, Senate House, Malet Street, London WC1

2026

TUESDAY January 20

‘Vulci and the Bonapartes: an Eldorado for 19th century Etruscan archaeology and collecting’

Christian Mazet, British Museum

Joint Lecture with the Institute of Classical Studies

Room 264 Senate House, Malet Street, London, WC1

TUESDAY February 10

‘High altitude archaeology in the Veneto mountains’

Mara Migliavacca, University of Verona

Joint Lecture with the Institute of Classical Studies

Room 264 Senate House, Malet Street, London WC1

TUESDAY March 11

‘Within the walls of Veii: multimodal investigations into the urban phenomenon of an Etruscan city’

Filippo Materazzi, Sapienza University of Rome

Joint Lecture with the Institute of Classical Studies

Room 261, Senate House, Malet Street, London WC1

TUESDAY May 5

‘Crafting Etruria: production and urbanisation
(late 10th–mid 7th century BCE)’

Silvia Amicone, University of Tübingen

Joint Lecture with the Institute of Classical Studies

Room 264 Senate House, Malet Street, London WC1

