MAIN RESEARCH INTERESTS AND ONGOING RESEARCH PROJECTS

Her main research interests focus on:

SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT

This is the present and most important research interest. I study the sustainable development from different point of view and for different context and industry: Tourism and cultural events, SME, but above all fair trade.

MANAGEMENT AND DECISIONAL PROCESSES

This is the first important research in my academic study.

The purpose of these researches is to define a model that allows the integration between the rational and irrational components in the economic evaluation of an industrial investment for improving the selection process of the alternatives, with a problem solving approach.

TOURISM MANAGEMENT

The purpose of this wide research area is to study some aspects of the tourist sector such as the monitoring system of the tourist flows, other managerial aspects of the tourist companies and the problems of development for a tourist destination.

PUBLIC UTILITIES

The purpose of this research area is to study some aspects of the energy sector, in particular the renewable energies.

The objective of this study is to investigate the economic reasons that should guide the public decision maker, in a scenario where not all investments in renewable energy would have the same real impact on the Italian industrial system and on the economy of the country.

In relation to her research interests, she is responsible of several Framework Agreements with as many companies with research, teaching and third mission objectives.

His publications are mainly based on international conference proceedings, monographs and international journals including Journal of Business Research, Current Issue in Tourism e Journal of Cleaner Production. The complete list of publications is available on the personal web page on the website of the Ateneo of Verona.
