GUIDELINES FOR ANNUAL REPORT OF PHD SCIENTIFIC ACTIVITIES

The report should be prepared as follows:

Part 1 (approximately 2 pages) including the following sections:

i) background of the research project;

ii) research aims (which should be summarized);

iii) results obtained during the year, including any theoretical and/or experimental difficulty that the student has encountered. If the research is part of an overall team research project, the individual contribution of the PhD Student should be clearly presented and highlighted.

Part 2 including the following sections:

i) publications (that can also be quoted in Part 1);

ii) participation to congresses (conferences, symposia, workshops), specifying whether the PhD Student's participation has implied a presentation (as poster or other formats) or simple attendance;

iii) talks/lectures given by the PhD Student, specifying the title, date, venue (e.g. Departmental presentations or presentations for the PhD Program);

The Report can be submitted in English (and Part 1 must be written in English also by Italian Students).
